

Analysts Predict Surge in Limited Insurance Policies

BY JOYCE FRIEDEN

Associate Editor, Practice Trends

WASHINGTON — Expect more health plans to offer limited insurance policies for people who are currently uninsured, Robert Laszewski said at a press briefing sponsored by the Center for Studying Health System Change.

"Insurers are recognizing that the 45 million people who are uninsured are a market," said Mr. Laszewski, founder and president of Health Policy and Strategy Associates, a consulting firm. "Now, they're not a market for comprehensive major medical insurance, but they are a market for very limited benefits programs, programs that cost perhaps $50-$100 per month."

He added that such plans—which typically include a wellness checkup every other year, a few visits to a primary care physician, and a drug benefit based on generic drugs—have come under criticism for not doing enough to help the uninsured. "I think that's a false set of arguments," he said. "Of course they're not going to solve the problems of the uninsured, but [they] do respond to the needs of people who cannot afford health insurance."

Most speakers at the conference also were upbeat about the future of consumer-driven health plans, such as health savings accounts (HSAs), although Christine Arnold, an executive director specializing in managed care at New York brokerage firm Morgan Stanley, noted that such plans are still a very small part of employers' health insurance offerings.

"Less than 5% of any HMO's total book of business is right now in any form of consumer-directed health care," she said. "We may be on the cusp of a product revolution, which I've been hoping for, but I don't think it's here yet."

Mr. Laszewski added that although consumer-driven health care "is a wonderful thing," it focuses on first-dollar benefits rather than on the real problem in health care spending: that 75% of the costs are incurred by the 15% of people who are very ill. "It's the sick people who blow through the deductibles and get to the out-of-pocket maximums," he said. "Sick people are the ones who control costs. Consumer-driven health care is a wonderful thing, but when the day is done, the incentives haven't fundamentally changed. In about another year or two, we're going to get this out of our system."

Efforts to measure physician quality also came in for much discussion.

"While I think 'sabotage' is a strong word, I would say there has been resistance by the health plans because each of them is trying to use this initiative as a competitive advantage," said Ms. Arnold. "The tug of war is that employers want this on a macro basis—they want a Consumer Reports for providers."

Two new initiatives could help consumers and employers compare health care quality, Ms. Arnold said. One is the Ambulatory Care Quality Alliance, a project of the American Academy of Family Physicians, the American College of Physicians, America's Health Insurance Plans, and the Agency for Healthcare Research and Quality. "They are trying to put together an objective list of measures. How do we measure who is a good provider? As we think about ways to assess quality, I think we need a standard."

The second initiative involves a group of employers and consultants who are exploring "care-focused" purchasing—that is, getting health plans to aggregate their provider data so employers and consumers can see which are the highest quality providers. "Any one health plan can't give you a full picture of [a physician]," she said.

Frederic Martucci, a managing director specializing in not-for-profit companies at Fitch Ratings, a New York credit-rating firm, said that Medicare's efforts to measure provider quality are likely to have a big impact on the health care market.

"It's only a little bit, but the camel's nose is in the tent, and as long as Medicare is interested in rewarding providers—especially hospitals—[that exhibit] quality, I think other people are going to jump on the bandwagon," he said.

DON'T MISS THESE TWO OUTSTANDING CME OPPORTUNITIES

SKIN DISEASE EDUCATION FOUNDATION
EASTCOAST DERMATOLOGY SEMINAR™
A CONTINUING MEDICAL EDUCATION CONFERENCE
MARRIOTT BALTIMORE WATERFRONT HOTEL
OCTOBER 14-16, 2005
SAVE THE DATE

SKIN DISEASE EDUCATION FOUNDATION
6th Annual
Las Vegas DERMATOLOGY SEMINAR™
A CONTINUING MEDICAL EDUCATION CONFERENCE
VENETIAN RESORT & CASINO
NOVEMBER 17-20, 2005
SAVE THE DATE

SKIN DISEASE EDUCATION FOUNDATION
EASTCOAST DERMATOLOGY SEMINAR™
A CONTINUING MEDICAL EDUCATION CONFERENCE

MEETING DIRECTOR:

James M. Spencer, M.D.

Mount Sinai School of Medicine, St. Petersburg, FL

FEATURING

MEDICAL DERMATOLOGY

- New Medications, Therapeutic Update

SURGICAL DERMATOLOGY

- Cancer Prevention
- Surgical and Non Surgical Therapies

COSMETIC DERMATOLOGY

- Advanced Use of Fillers and Botulinum Toxin Type A
- Advances in Laser and RF Technology

At this inaugural meeting of the EastCoast Dermatology Seminar, a prestigious faculty will present a comprehensive update on the latest developments in dermatology covering management strategies for common dermatologic conditions and advanced therapies for treating severe skin disorders. Emerging medical and light based therapies for treating skin cancer, cutting edge cosmetic therapies including non-surgical lifting and tightening, non-surgical fat therapies, advanced lasers, new fillers and Botulinum Toxin Type A will also be featured. Each session is highly informative and immediately useful in improving patient care and enhancing your practice.

The quiet luxury of the Marriott's Baltimore Waterfront Hotel, ensures a relaxing visit to help you make the most of this high caliber CME experience.

Both meetings are jointly sponsored by the Elsevier Office of Continuing Medical Education and Skin Disease Education Foundation.

The EastCoast Dermatology Seminar and the 6th Annual Las Vegas Dermatology Seminar are each recognized by the AAD and the AMA/PRA for 14 category 1 credits toward continuing medical education.

SKIN DISEASE EDUCATION FOUNDATION

6th Annual
Las Vegas DERMATOLOGY SEMINAR™
A CONTINUING MEDICAL EDUCATION CONFERENCE

MEETING CO-DIRECTORS:

Francisco A Kerdel, M.D.

University of Miami, Miami, FL

Sigfrid A. Muller, M.D.

Professor of Clinical Medicine (Dermatology)
University of Nevada School of Medicine, Las Vegas, NV

FEATURING

- A comprehensive update on assessment, diagnosis and therapy of difficult dermatologic disorders
- A visit to the Skin and Cancer Clinic for a "LIVE" presentation and discussion of 20 problem cases by the Las Vegas Dermatologic Society
- State of the Art Lectures on New Clinical Syndromes and Fillers: New and Old
- 2-Part Resident's Forum: Practical Management of Psoriasis
- Live and video demonstrations of the most current cosmetic derm procedures

Learn the latest on therapeutics; psoriasis; and assessment, diagnosis and therapy of difficult dermatologic disorders. Visit the Skin & Cancer Clinic for presentations and discussions of 20 "LIVE Clinical Cases" by the Las Vegas Dermatologic Society. See demonstrations of new cosmetic procedures plus state-of-the-art lectures on soft tissue fillers and an innovative two-part Resident's Forum on the Practical Management of Psoriasis. All sessions are highly informative and immediately useful in improving patient care and your practice.

The exceptional luxury and comfort of the all-suite VENETIAN RESORT & CASINO will enhance your learning experience.

SCIENTIFIC ADVISORY BOARD

Terry L. Barrett, M.D.***

Johns Hopkins University

Steven C. Bernstein, M.D.***

University of Montreal

Ilona J. Frieden, M.D.***

University of California, San Francisco

David J. Goldberg, M.D., J.D.***

Mount Sinai School of Medicine

Kenneth E. Greer, M.D.***

University of Virginia

Howard I. Maibach, M.D.

University of California, San Francisco

Sigfrid A. Muller, M.D.

Las Vegas Skin & Cancer Clinics

Henry H. Roenigk, Jr., M.D.

Arizona Advanced Dermatology, Phoenix

Randall K. Roenigk, M.D.

Mayo Clinic, Rochester

James M. Spencer, M.D.

Mount Sinai School of Medicine

Christopher B. Zachary, M.D.***

University of California, San Francisco

* indicates member of Hawaii Dermatology Seminar Planning Committee

EDUCATIONAL GRANT SUPPORT

These activities are supported in part by an educational grant from:

3M Pharmaceuticals

Abbott Immunology

Amgen, Inc.

Astellas Pharma US, Inc.

Dermik Aesthetics

Genentech, Inc.

OrthoNeutrogena

Pierre Fabre Dermo-Cosmetique USA

Ranbaxy USA

SkinMedica

Valeant Pharmaceuticals International

To register or for more program information, visit www.sdefderm.com or call 312/988-7700.

SKIN DISEASE
EDUCATION
FOUNDATION
an Elsevier business