

Announcement

New Digital Editor Appointed for Cutis®

We are pleased to announce that Gary Goldenberg, MD, has been named Digital Editor of Cutis. In this new role, Dr. Goldenberg will work closely with our Editorial Board and editorial/publishing staff on our website, www.cutis.com. Dr. Goldenberg is Assistant Clinical Professor of Dermatology at the Icahn School of Medicine at Mount Sinai in New York, New York, and Medical Director of the Dermatology Faculty Practice at The Mount Sinai Medical Center, New York. Dr. Goldenberg has been a member of the Cutis Editorial Board since April 2008 due to his expertise in dermatopathology as well as medical and cosmetic dermatology. Over the years, Dr. Goldenberg's involvement in the journal's presence in print and online has expanded to include a regular series of Cosmetic Dermatology articles and video commentaries on practice management topics. With Dr. Goldenberg's oversight, we will expand our offerings of highly practical content in the digital arena with an emphasis on resources for the practicing dermatologist.

"We welcome Gary as our first Digital Editor of Cutis and thank him for agreeing to lead us into the future," said Cutis Editor-in-Chief Vincent A. DeLeo, MD. "Cutis has been a leader in print readership among dermatologists and with Gary's input, we will be able to offer more to our readers online."