

WebMD Health Network Conflicts of Interest and Disclosure Form

Health Professional/Expert/Author/Reviewer/Writer:

WebMD LLC (“WebMD”) requires every individual who is responsible for the creation, review or development of content that appears on any site within the WebMD Health Network to disclose all Relevant Relationships (as defined below) which may be deemed to create a Conflict of Interest (as defined below). WebMD may periodically require you to submit an updated form prior to providing additional services or as otherwise required by WebMD policy; however, if in the interim you develop a Relevant Relationship (as defined below), you are obligated to bring such Relevant Relationship to the attention of your WebMD contact person prior to engaging in additional services for WebMD so that WebMD can ensure that this Disclosure Form is updated accordingly and any resulting Conflict of Interest is resolved.

For the purpose of this Disclosure Form:

a)A Conflict of Interest is any interest, financial or otherwise, that may reasonably be deemed to undermine the impartiality of an individual performing services for WebMD due to a real or potential conflict between such individual’s personal interests and professional obligations to WebMD.

b)A Relevant Relationship means any relationships occurring within the past twelve (12) months between you and/or an individual with whom you have a close personal relationship and a Relevant Company (as defined below) that could create a potential or actual Conflict of Interest, as further described in the table below.

c)A Relevant Company includes, without limitation: (i) any company that manufactures, markets and/or distributes pharmaceuticals, medical devices, and/or consumer packaged goods; (ii) any company that could reasonably be perceived to have influence in the healthcare industry; (iii) any company that is the subject of or otherwise discussed in the content you create, review or develop for WebMD; or (iv) any company that is the manufacturer, marketer and/or distributor of any products or services that are the subject of or otherwise discussed in content you create, review or develop for WebMD.

This Disclosure Form is directed to interests of a business or financial nature and is not generally intended to cover your political, civic or charitable activities, or individual participation in professional organizations, however, if you feel that there is a possibility that such activities might create a Conflict of Interest then you should disclose such relationship below. If you have any question as to whether a particular relationship is a Relevant Relationship, please discuss this matter with your WebMD contact person.

Should WebMD determine that a Conflict of Interest exists, it will determine if and how such Conflict of Interest can be resolved. The information that you disclose on this Disclosure Form may be published within the WebMD Health Network in the appropriate disclosure format, e.g., within your Biography, Profile or Authors and Disclosures summary, as determined by WebMD in its sole discretion.
